FOR ALL YOUR HELP!

Dear Friend of World Youth Alliance,

My name is Faith Kabora. I am 22 years old from Nakuru, Kenya. I recently graduated with a law degree from Kabarak University. It is during one of the long holidays that I got to intern at the World Youth Alliance Africa Regional Office in Nairobi, Kenya and I got familiar with the work that WYA is involved with.

The passion and the responsibility executed by the WYA staff in promoting their mission motivated me to want to intern at the Headquarters in New York and words can't barely express how big of an opportunity this has been. It has not only been a dream come true but it has exceeded my wildest imagination. I have met the most amazing young people from all over the world with whom I share perspectives, dreams, and hope for a better future for us as young people keen to see a better world.

I got to work very closely with the WYA Director of Advocacy, Ms. Nadja Wolfe, represented WYA at the Third Committee meeting following the United Nations General Assembly, attended NGO and committee meetings, and worked on statements and documents relating to the Commission on the Status of Women (CSW), among many others. The work has exposed me to a lot of policy making, expanded my knowledge on international and national law and the importance of engagement and contribution from young people who hold the values of the World Youth Alliance.

Further, undertaking the CTP training, FEMM training and the White Paper Advocacy training really gave me a fresh perspective into WYA's work and I genuinely felt that I can be of significance in the ever changing millennium world.

FOR ALL YOUR HELP!

Living in the WYA house has also been an exceptional experience and I am deeply humbled by the generous contributions made by the friends of WYA and their willingness to commit to the common course of solidarity and promoting human dignity. I am keen to continue working with WYA back home and to impact young people as much as I have been impacted while here in New York City. I am very grateful for the opportunity to have lived and experienced New York City and more so, the time I have spent at World Youth Alliance, the amazing house, facilities, and an experience of a lifetime that cannot be quantified.

Asante sana! The work done by WYA would not have been possible without you.

Sincerely,

Faith Kabora
